

Article about the Inclusive Business Network

Are you wanting to make your business more inclusive? Do you want to hire a more diverse workforce but aren't sure where to start? Or maybe you need recruitment and HR support to get this started?

Join Camden's Inclusive Business Network and become recognised as an inclusive employer. The network aims to create a community of practice around employers who encourage, promote and share learning about embedding good work standards.

By joining the network businesses can access tools and resources, receive or offer mentoring support, receive light touch HR support, share good practice, explore productivity and receive free recruitment support. Being part of the network also demonstrates your commitment to be an inclusive employer and helps forge better connections with local businesses and residents.
